The Director said that while he realized it would be somewhat difficult to insure that maps covering all potential situations are always available at the White House, he did feel that when a situation begins to "hot up" we should insure that maps covering the area concerned are on hand at the White House. ACTION: DD/I.

The Director also said there should be no distinction made between the DCI and the DDCI and it would be General Cabell's decision as to whether he felt the DCI should sign off on any given project. Action A/DD/P
